

RescuED Activity 3: Let's face the issues

Ask the students to work in pairs. Provide each pair with a set of sequencing cards already cut into pieces. Ask the students to match the young driver issues with the relevant text. Encourage the students to read and discuss the content of each of the cards when constructing the correct sentences. Ask groups to share their sentences.

Activity 4 should follow this discussion.

Sequencing cards (for students)

Driver inexperience and driver overconfidence	must drive to their level of experience and the conditions on the road.
The provisional licence period	have difficulty assessing potential hazards.
Driving involves making a number of rapid decisions	can very quickly find themselves in new driving situations or unfamiliar environments where a mistake can be deadly.
Inexperienced drivers	that they are learning a difficult task in a complex environment.
One major issue for young drivers is	sometimes simultaneously. Young drivers can become mentally 'overloaded' and unable to react to rapid changes in the road environment.
Young drivers	is an opportunity for actively learning safe driving behaviour.
Due to the complexity of driving, young drivers	can lead to risk taking. They are the main reasons why so many young drivers are involved in road crashes.

Sequencing card: Sentence matches (teacher copy)

Driver inexperience and driver overconfidence	can lead to risk taking. They are the main reasons why so many young drivers are involved in road crashes.
The provisional licence period	is an opportunity for actively learning safe driving behaviour.
Driving involves making a large number of rapid decisions	sometimes simultaneously. Young drivers can become mentally 'overloaded' and unable to react to rapid changes in the road environment.
Inexperienced drivers	have difficulty assessing potential hazards.
One major issue for young drivers is	that they are learning a difficult task in a complex environment.
Young drivers	can very quickly find themselves in new driving situations or unfamiliar environments where a mistake can be deadly.
Due to the complexity of driving, young drivers	must drive to their level of experience and the conditions on the road.

